

Sunil Rathore, MD

Neurology

Sunil Rathore, MD, is a neurologist at CommonSpirit Holy Cross Hospital – Salt Lake and CommonSpirit Neurology, Pain & Spine Salt Lake. Dr. Rathore’s philosophy of care centers on actively listening to patients and systematically outlining their concerns and goals. He then provides patients with comprehensive treatment options—including medications, supplements, and/or lifestyle changes—ensuring the approach aligns with their preferences.

Dr. Rathore completed his undergraduate studies in Biology at St. Edward’s University in Austin, Texas. He then pursued his medical training and Neurology Residency at the Louisiana State University Health Sciences Center School of Medicine in New Orleans. Further specializing, he completed a Neurocritical Fellowship Training at the Cleveland Clinic in Ohio, and a Headache Fellowship Training at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City.

In his personal time, Dr. Rathore enjoys staying active through bicycling and running, both on his own and with friends. He also loves exploring new restaurants with his wife. Above all, he cherishes spending time with his active 4-year-old son, who is enthusiastically exploring a variety of hobbies such as skiing and piano.

Special Interests:

- Botox
- Cluster Headache
- Headache
- Migraine
- Occipital Nerve Block
- Trigeminal Neuralgia
- Trigger Point Injections

Location

CommonSpirit Neurology, Pain & Spine Salt Lake

82 South 1100 East, Suite 103
Salt Lake City, Utah 84102
(801) 505-5370

mountain.commonspirit.org

Scan the QR code below to learn more about Dr. Rathore and to get directions to his office.

